Aquatic Invasive Species (AIS) can be aquatic animals such as zebra and quagga mussels or rusty crayfish, or aquatic vegetation such as hydrilla. These AIS can have far-reaching impacts on our water resources. Many of these species permanently change stream and lake ecology, negatively affecting native species and our prized sport fisheries. Zebra and quagga mussels can attach to water infrastructure and equipment causing damage. These species are often called “aquatic hitchhikers” because they can hitch a ride on boats, equipment, or in any water that is not drained.

The Wyoming Game and Fish Department is offering several watercraft inspection trainings in 2020. These trainings will provide the skills necessary to inspect your own watercraft and certify you to inspect other watercraft as well. The trainings include information on basic biology, impacts, transport vectors and distribution of AIS. It includes classroom instruction, a question and answer session, and a hands-on watercraft inspection exercise.

The trainings are free and open to anyone interested in preventing the spread of AIS through watercraft inspection. These trainings are being offered as a one-day course (9:00a – 4:00p). Registration deadline is one week prior to the class start date. Limited to 20 people per course.

To register: contact Joshua Leonard, AIS Coordinator at (307) 721-1374 or joshua.leonard@wyo.gov.
