Driving Directions:
From Dubois, take Forest Road 285 (Horse Creek Road) north about 12 miles and then take a left on Forest Road 510 (Burroughs Creek Road), which heads up the Burroughs Creek watershed. Travel about 0.3 mile, cross the irrigation ditch, and then take the next right down toward the creek. If the road is dry, you can drive all the way to the creek, but if it’s wet, park in the first available turnout and hike down. The 4.34-mile long instream flow segment runs downstream from Washaskie Wilderness boundary to just upstream of the Little Horse Creek diversion ditch in quarter SENW of Township 43, Range 107, Section 24. The segment remains entirely on USFS land.
